White River Renewables completes the acquisition of two solar photovoltaic plants in Mexico totaling 155MWp from Jinko Solar

White River Renewables (“White River”) has completed the acquisition of two solar photovoltaic (“PV”) plants in Mexico from JinkoSolar, one of the world’s largest and most innovative solar panel manufacturers in the world (NYSE: JKS):

- Las Viborillas, a 130MWp PV plant located in the State of Jalisco
- San Ignacio, a 25MWp PV plant located in the Yucatán Peninsula

Both plants are fully operational, having reached commercial operations under their PPAs in September 2018 and May 2019, respectively.

White River is a Mexican renewable energy company jointly sponsored by Riverstone Holdings (“Riverstone”), a leading energy and power private equity firm, and White Summit Capital (“WSC”), a Switzerland-based firm specializing in infrastructure investments and asset management.
